

The Plague of Masked Conspirators

© Copyright ~ Published July 16, 2006 By R. Mark Sink

Your Mind's Targeted Matrix::

ma.trix (ma'tricks) n., 1. A situation or surrounding substance within which something else originates, develops, or is contained: "Freedom of expression is the matrix, the indispensable condition of nearly every form of freedom." [Benjamin N Cardozo quoted from the Third Edition American Heritage Dictionary.]

First, let me ask you a simple question. Do you believe conspiracy theorists use a different area of their brain, or do you believe they are nuts? What's your answer?

Let's take a deeper look. There are those who assume if someone believes in conspiracy theories, they also think illogically. The reason for this is those who are throwing out their free will against disbeliefs of their ideas, are also actually under the assumption, they can force your brain to make decisions a certain way. They assume they can cross you with the black to red horse or red to black horse criss-cross technique bypassing the real and spiritual world.

For better understanding, the black horse represents temporarily retained knowledge and the pursuit thereof. The red horse represents emotional understanding. The white horse represents the spiritual core of your being and purified memory, while the pale horse represents your physical presence. The last two sit across from each other at the base of The Attune Order.

There have been studies that show when you start your thinking process with the red horse, [emotion], you stimulate parts of your brain that only hold you back, such as pain centers. As we mature, we attach [cycled] concepts of belief [accepted knowledge then used to make decisions]. We also have instinctive knowledge traits brought forward with us when we are born.

A Hidden Mysterious Matrix: The problem starts when you accept knowledge as though you were putting it on a shelf in your brain. If that knowledge is based on feelings, you permanently force yourself to start thinking with the red horse first with all these accepted issues if you're original thought process [reason] was also. Many do this and don't realize it. [They don't think about the way they think.] We simply accept knowledge and re-use that to make all our decisions.

Conspiracy theorists do not necessarily start their thoughts with emotion, but rather with the black horse, [intelligence] which activates the dorsolateral prefrontal cortex. By activating this area of the brain first, you are able to realize [reason] when the emotional state is realized. You also, I believe in my writings, cycle through "The Attune Order" which enlightens your spirit power.

Either way, you normally end up passing through the four horsemen with two core rotations. One path is similar to sleep, and one path is awake in the proper state. Those who react to conspiracy theorists are blatantly using their red horse first in defense of their accepted knowledge. The conspiracy theorist is presenting ideas based on knowledge keys received and a sense of balance that seems missing. They are often attacked with emotionally attached retained knowledge and told they are illogical because they are emotionally attached. When you're emotionally attached yourself, the best thing to do is dump it on someone else as a defense measure. You feel good because you just killed two birds with one stone, [in your sick mind].

For all those who blast the conspiracy theorist, you make yourself a fool by the ways you emotionally react with accepted knowledge or jaded facts. The strange part unfortunately, not enough notice. The matrix is deep in America. Other factors now rule too many. A perfect example is the prevalent red horse of religion which is threatening to destroy us all with emotional reactions lived out, in the real physical world.

The Black Horse Brings Balance::

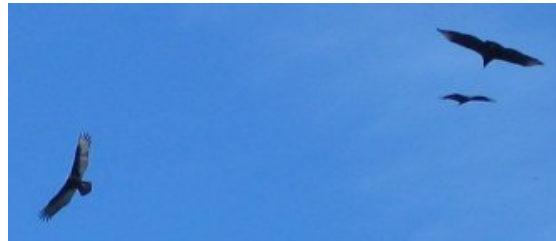

In order for man and women, and their children to survive, they must someday realize their sources of origins are the same wonderful mother. There is no need for war. Nothing of this earth living should be harmed.

Removing jaded and physically based accepted knowledge is the beginning of balance. Knowledge must be driven based on its own undeniable infinities with vigor. The use of starter keys, such as Astronomy, Science and the unexplained, or the Holy Bible, are perfect starters to begin a new journey of understanding. Embrace the unknown. Look for a deeper meaning. The reward is 'super spirit power'.

Conspiracy theorists are not trouble makers. They have developed an order to their thoughts. This thought pattern begins with the black horse most often, passing through the white horse immediately for spiritual insight, across the home base to the pale horse nature. Lastly, when the final thought decision is made, three horses have past judgments of that idea. The resulting or retained memory has the ability to realize [reason], and the urge to cycle back through.

The swarming vultures of your [free will] use the black horse on you and the red horse. They conspire between the two, and leave to you to sort out your physical existence and spirit world.

By doing so, they continually block you from the 5th Seal Pinnacle which is spoken of in Revelation of the Holy Bible. When there is so much war and disagreement over beliefs, why don't more people look in and overview their brain functions? Most people don't even know they have a Pineal Gland in their brain or what it is. Soon, we may only have this place left to look.

Our social structure is falling apart at the seams. We are running out of our own time we create. Those who are conspiring thought orders, force free will upon others through, what I call the ARMK order. They place an order of reason inside your mind and force you to think through "The Attune Order" in their preferred path. This conspiracy in your mind is without a doubt, a true matrix, just like in the movie, only this one is real and dangerous.

The Plague of Masked Conspirators force [accepted knowledge] through tribal methods as acceptance. Every religion presents their beliefs as acceptance. You're either in or out, you cannot feel like a member unless you agree. No one says, "Here is the knowledge, please cycle this and share your thoughts with us." The structuring of knowledge for spiritual storage is critical for a balanced society of any nature.

Mind Vulture Tricks::

Religion is a personal belief of choice nearly 100% based on the Red Horse. Because it requires numbers to attain its goals, its very nature is evil in the fact that it requests a release of free will combined with a monetary need. The request of accepted knowledge is forced using an emotional trick called faith masked as a white horse. In reality, when you remove the mask, it is a red horse.

The Red Horse is applied to your soul by rejection if you don't accept. A tactic to remember that will help you verify if someone is forcing their ways on you is as follows:

All normal and routine human functions while awake, begin with the Black Horse knowledge. And, of course your instincts [gifts from the white horse] that somehow are stored in your brain previous to learning them. As you function, you begin to loose energy, and soon must shut down your core rotation. You now must recharge, or rewind your core. You thus reverse order, and your sleep cycle begins with the red horse and your path is clockwise [as you see and understand it now]. In reality, it is a reversed counter clockwise path. [When you look within to your twin, you look at a mirror image.]

Every movement or thought you make creates time. You make decisions based on your existing stored knowledge or [accepted] knowledge. What actually happens is a result of emotion or better yet, time passed. This is perfectly cycled through the four horsemen, and you continue to cycle in the order you design or create. Make a practice to study knowledge based on the spiritual [memory collected from proper cycling], and placing nature along side the spirit, so the emotional result is ordered.

More important, your solar connection can be enabled if your physical state allows it. This requires the heating up of the pineal gland through meditation, and using a KMAR, [physical, spiritual, intellectual, emotional] order. Being aware of these states of being, and how they are interlaced into every thought and action of our lives, is misunderstood by most. Yet, they sit at the core of our being and the universe.

The balance of nature and the use of the black horse, is purified by the spirit world. You must pass through [use your internal power] by processing thoughts in order. Most prefer to dwell on the left physical-emotional side [reversed as in your mirrored soul's image]. They do not even cycle. You begin the cycle by embracing knowledge as a journey. You are energizing the right side of your brain by beginning your thoughts based on non-emotional thoughts. These old ideas need re-analyzing through a better cycle of reality and reason.

If you desire to read, desire to learn, you have the desire to cycle clockwise during wake time and ignite a whole new world within. Remember the spirit world and use a balanced cycle of thought. This will help you result in greater decisions for your ultimate dreams within.

R. Mark Sink writes about the super spirit power, and is the creator of The Attune Order. You can read more at his website, www.celestialpassages.com or visit www.ebookopen.com for PDF eBooks & Poetry.
